Professional Development Programs Lawyer

Are you considering opportunities outside the practice of law? Do you want to remain in the world you know, working with your friends and colleagues, but wearing a different hat? This unique opportunity with Canada's leading and most visible professional organization will allow you to do just that.

The Canadian Bar Association is the advocate and voice of all members of the legal profession. The CBA is a leading edge organization committed to enhancing the professional and commercial interests of a diverse membership and to protecting the independence of the judiciary and the Bar. As a result of its strategy for further growth, the CBA has an immediate need for a Professional Development Programs Lawyer.

Reporting to the Director of Professional Development, the Programs Lawyer is responsible for the development and delivery of successful Annual Legal Conferences, online CLE, and selected stand-alone seminars and will assist the Director with management functions, as required. A challenging and multi-faceted position involving a mix of sophisticated skills, the opportunity to work independently and as part of a team, and interact with the general public as well as with CBA members and staff, the preferred candidate for this role will have superior communication skills, be able to work under pressure and manage multiple priorities, possess strong organizational skills and excellent interpersonal and problem solving skills. All the best elements of being a lawyer are there – extensive interaction with people, sophisticated judgment and analysis, developing relationships and demonstrating diplomacy as well as participating in the strategic growth of the group. A Canadian law degree is preferred with advanced computer skills and ideally a technology background and interest in marketing. The ability to work in English and French is essential.
