Product liability litigation is complex and assessing damages requires the right knowledge and skills. Defining, assessing, and challenging damages arising from a loss requires litigators to understand the fundamentals of insurance law as it pertains to property loss cases. This comprehensive OBA Top Litigator Series program will provide you with an introduction to the process of adjusting property losses, an understanding of the essentials when assessing property loss damages, an explanation of variations in jurisdictions, and key strategic considerations when litigating property loss and product liability claims. This is an essential must-attend program for all practicing and working in the area of property loss and product liability litigation.
